- A center ref MUST NOT argue point of judgment or call with anyone. If someone has a complaint match will be held and a calm conversation with fight commissioner will take place. We don't want our refs to destroy their credibility throughout the competition.

- A referee must wear safety gloves at all times while being center referee.

Must make sure that the striking surfaces are free of abrasive tape that may cut the face of other fighters.
- A few moments of equipment inspection at the beginning of a bout can prevent serious injury.
- Required for use and inspection – boxing/full contact head guard, mouth guard, MMA fingerless fight gloves, Ringstar fight shoes, groin cup men, turtle shell chest protectors women.
- It is also the center ref's responsibility to make sure each fighter's nails are trimmed and not jagged as to hurt or injury other fighters.
- It is the center ref's responsibility to control the fight at all times as well as the ring and not allow coaches, parents, friends or anyone enter ring while fight is in play.
- Referee is as mobile as the movement that the fighters dictate.
- Center ref must make sure that other officials do not congregate on the side of any fighter and remain neutral at all times.
- Referee must make judgment calls immediately upon breaking the fight for any reason and may not confer with any other official or fight team, coach etc. The ref may however, use a brief moment to review rules with commissioner if deemed necessary.
- The ref should never allow a competitor to compromise his or her authority as an official. The referee enforces the regulations exactly.
- The ref must not tolerate unsportsmanlike conduct or disrespect from the competitors or coaches, parents, friends etc. The match will be stopped and the fighter will NOT be permitted to go on.
- The ref should establish a close working relationship with the judges based on mutual respect. The officials must cooperate completely for the safety of the competitors and the determination of that division's true champion. The ref and judges always support each other on determination of rule violations.
- The ref must control that there is NO dialogue between the fighters once the match starts.
- If the ref has to discuss a violation with the competitor or an issue of warrant the clock must be stopped and start back as the fight proceeds.
- A ref should never ask another judge or official did you see that kick or punch. All personal conversations about any of the matches should be done so when the division is completely over. There will be no personal discussion while any division is in session.
- The ref must communicate clearly and concisely with the score-keeper and timekeeper. Confusion often erupts when a scorekeeper has not been properly informed as to who scored what, when.

1 minute each

Tuck Jumps: Jumping in air tucking knees to chest, be sure to point toes toward the ground and press hands down during jump. As soon as feet touch floor jump right back up and repeat. The jump cannot be counted if knees are not properly tucked to chest. The knees must come at least to the competitor's waist. The counter should have hand set at that height.

Cannonball with a jump shot: cannot count if the hand and wrist do not fully extend on the jump shot motion, with toes point down after jump.

Push Ups: Military style pushups. Full extension of arms, chin down to floor. Counts if the body/head raises back up to start position where the counter's hand touches the top of the participants head

Front Kicks: There has to be a chamber with each kick. Starting position for drill is a fighting stance. Following the stance, squat down, coming back up with a chamber and a front kick to the center line in front of competitor(center line would be center of the judge/counter). Then kicks are then alternated between legs with a squat in between each kick.

V-Ups: laying down on back hands and feet stretched out. Hands and legs are lifted up at the same time upper body coming up at least to a 45 degree angle, and it doesn't count until hands and feet touch in the center. Counter/judge will hold hand in center of competitor and will only count if both the hands and feet of competitor meet hand in the center.

The total of all 5 drills equals competitor score and placement 1st, 2nd 3rd and so on.

Assigned counters will be in place – no one but the competitor may enter the ring/division all others must cheer from the side lines.

Competitor may have water in hand during the transition from each drill.
